DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1 – 2, 7 – 8, 10 – 11 and 13 – 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Arora et al. (US 2005/0096616).

With reference to claims 1, 7, 10 and 13 – 14, Arora et al. (hereinafter "Arora") discloses an absorbent article (abstract) comprising a top sheet (31) positioned in a face which is adapted to be brought into contact with a human body [0021];

a back sheet (35) positioned in a face which is opposite to the top sheet and is adapted to be brought into contact with underwear [0047]; and an absorbent body (100) interposed between the top sheet and the back sheet (figures 2A - 2C);

wherein the back sheet may or may not include a colored area [0047] and may have a variable coating [0062] and wherein a light transmittance of light transmitted through the top sheet, the colored area of the back sheet and the absorbent body is 63% as set forth in col. 6 - 7, see especially Example A and [0066].

The difference between Arora and claims 1 and 7 is the explicit recitation that the back sheet includes a slightly colored area and a darkly colored area.

While these terms are considered to be relative, the examiner contends that Arora teaches multiple variations that allow for a variable transparency and/or thickness of the article as set forth in [0062]. Further, it is noted that a light transmittance of less than 15% may be zero and is therefore not required to be present at all.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a variation in color to modify the transparency of the article since Arora recognizes the advantages with varying the transparency as set forth in col. 6 - 7. Further, since Arora anticipates the use of both a colored and non colored portion as set forth in [0047], a variation between the two extremes is within the level of ordinary skill in the art.

With respect to claims 2, 8 and 11, Arora teaches the invention substantially as claimed as set forth in the rejection of claims 1, 7 and 10.

The difference between Arora and claim 2 is the explicit teaching that the backsheet has a colored and non colored portion.

Arora teaches a backsheet which may or may not be colored as set forth in [0047].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide a back sheet with a colored and non-colored portion because Arora anticipates the use of both as set forth in [0047]. Likewise, the use of either continues to result in a product with the claimed light transmittance as set forth in the rejection of claim 1, and therefore would not provide a patentable distinction between the claimed invention and the prior art since either article would have the claimed light transmittance.

Claims 4 – 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Arora et al. (US 2005/0096616) in view of Klemp (US 6,702,795).

The difference between Arora and claims 4 – 5 is the provision that an orientation identification is provided in the colored area.

Klemp teaches a backsheet (18) with an orientation identification as set forth in figures 6 - 7.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the backsheet of Arora with the orientation identification of Klemp since the inclusion of such provides aesthetically pleasing and practical instruction as taught by Klemp in col. 4, lines 26 - 37.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 – 2, 4 – 5, 7 – 8, 10 – 11 and 14 – 15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL.

See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
